

Naibor

October 2008

Naibor and Little Naibor have had a fantastic season. The camp, looking green and lush after good rains in the evenings and beautiful sunny days, has allowed our guests to have amazing game viewing.

The migration was spectacular this year, with wildebeest and zebra coming in by the thousands from Tanzania, naturally the cats following. Multiple crossings were seen from the beginning of July until the end of September, with the Mara River Crocodiles making viewing the crossings spectacular.

Towards the end of the season there were many babies everywhere. The Mara came alive with young animals, one baby zebra even mistook one of the Naibor vehicles for "Mum" and followed the landcruiser into camp. After staying near the vehicle for a few hours, the staff eventually drove the car back to Mum, baby zebra following lovingly behind, until eventually Mum's calls were enough to make the little one abandon the car and return to the herd!

Jamie Cocker and Sophie Spyropoulos, our camp managers, have been adding their own personal touches to the camp and it has never looked better. Little Naibor and Naibor both continue to amaze our guests with it's outstanding location, scenic tents and high standards of service. The beautiful camp spa has been a huge hit with both the ladies and the men as Ann continues to work her massage magic on the banks of the Talek. The local community have had a great season selling their beaded maasai ware in the camp shop.

As we close for the rains, we look forward to having you with us again in December.
